Cutting coupons can be a good way to save money, but what if you want to try out products before dishing out any cash to make sure you like them? We have news for you. Big companies want you to try out their products. Word of mouth is one of the best ways to gain customers, so big companies happily send out freebies so that you'll spread the word.

You can take advantage of these freebies a number of ways. Deal Seeking Mom and The Freebie Blogger are two sites that have lists of freebies and where to find them. If you are on Facebook, Free Sample Momma is a great page to follow as it will give you updates on new freebies that are available (be sure to follow iMoneyCoach too!).

Some quick tips when ordering freebies:

- Be sure to use a "junk" email address when you sign up for freebies because your email address might be shared with a companies' partners, or you might start getting lots of email from them.
- Only sign up for freebies from companies you have heard of or know to be legitimate and reputable. Smaller companies may be fishing for email addresses to sell or may misuse your information.
- Along those lines, be sure you look at the web address of the company you are ordering a freebie from. It should look like www.COMPANY.com, not www.OTHER.com/COMPANY. You want to be sure you are not giving personal information to some other company.

- Don't give any credit card information when signing up for freebies to ensure you do not face any unnecessary charges.

Getting your freebies can take anywhere from 3-8 weeks. But if you don't mind the wait you might stumble upon some great products and save money at the same time.

Here's a bonus freebie to get you started! Enjoy:
