Save Hundreds of Dollars a Year and Have a Safer, Healthier Home

Sometimes newer is not better. When it comes to cleaning and personal hygiene, going back to some tried and true methods and materials that Great-Grandma used is safer and healthier for you.

These simpler ingredients are better for the environment and can save you money. By making your own products or by simply using the basics like vinegar, baking soda, coconut oil, rubbing alcohol, etc. you will also have a healthier home and can avoid exposing your family and pets to those dangerous chemicals found in household chemicals on the store shelves (you can read about the dangers of chemicals here).

Here are some great, inexpensive uses for:

- Vinegar - You can buy vinegar in bulk at your local Costco or Sam's Club and use it all over the house: 45 Uses for Vinegar. You can also use vinegar to safely keep your car windows from freezing over in the winter: Vinegar for Car Windows. And you can easily make lovely scented vinegar for cleaning
- Baking Soda - 31 Uses for Baking Soda or try the "Explosive" Showerhead Cleaner
- Rubbing Alcohol - You can get a bottle for roughly $2 at your local Walgreen's and use it for Cleaning microfiber furniture or any of these 25 Alternative Uses for Rubbing Alcohol.
- Coconut Oil - DIY Goo Gone to get rid of gunk and goo.

And some do-it-yourself recipes:

- 1 year's worth of homemade laundry soap for about $26
- 25 Green Cleaning Recipes for the whole house
- Even more Green Household Cleaner Recipes
- Homemade All Natural Deodorant
